Do you worry about your child's future?

Most children, when they become adults, are expected to assume responsibility for themselves. But, what about those who can't provide for themselves because of a physical, mental or emotional illness or disability, or who have and will continue to have, a lifelong dependency on you for their care and support? Please join us for this valuable webinar on "Estate Planning for Families with Special Needs".

Topics of discussion will include, but are not limited to:

- Protecting government programs
- Critical elements of estate planning
- Distributing family assets fairly and equitably
